EDAVAH NOT

And today, He whispered your name. The little gift attached isn't about paying anything back or doing anything in return. It's simply to remind you of something the world doesn't say enough:

You matter.

You're seen. You're loved more than you know.

Not because of what you do. Not because you're perfect. But simply because you exist and your life has purpose.

If this moment meant something to you, even a tiny bit, you're welcome to share it with us at <code>info@nedavah.org</code>. But it's completely optional. No pressure and no expectations. Just know this: Out of everyone in the world today, God put <code>you</code> on my heart. And that was not an accident.
